Republican Rally.

CALIFORNIA.

Petaluma, August 17th.—The Republicans had a grand rally here last night Elaborate preparations for the occasion were made. A Blaine and Logan banner spanned Main street, and Derby's Hall, on Washington street-the Republican headquarers-was handsomely decorated with flags and evergreens, the typical pine cone being conspicuous in the decorations. Above the speakers' stand, on which were seated the officers, the names of Blaine and Logan appeared in large letters of red and gold while on the outer wall, facing Washington street, life-sized portraits of Lincoln, Garfield, Blaine and Logan commanded attention. At dark a monster bonfire blazed at the intersection of Main and Washington streets, and at the hour appointed for the speaking Derby's Hall was crowded to the doors by a highly respectable and intelligent audience, among whom were many ladies. The meeting was called to order by eaders of the Kentucky bar, and his elo- tors, which decrees that Gonzales, Diaz and the President, S. C. THE ARCTIC SURVIVORS.

Lieutenant Greely and the Cannibalism Matter. [By Telegraph.]

Boston, August 16th.-In an interview at Portsmouth to-day Lieutenant Greely said, as to the reports of divisions in the expedition: "With regard to the story of two factions, with Lieutenant Kislingbury in charge of the opposition, I will say that it is totally false, having no foundation whatever. Trouble between Kislingbury and myself occurred in 1881, the first year of the expedition. He desired to be relieved from duty, and I, not wishing to retain a man against his will, although I had the power so to do, gave him his liberty. It is my opinion that he desired to return to the United States. He went southward, but the Proteus was sunk and he returned to duty. I treated him as though nothing had happened, and when Lockwood died

I can truthfully say that have suffered more mental anguish during the past few days than I did in all my so ourn at the north, when the chances were a hundred to one against me. I cannot but repeat, if there was any cannibalism and there now seems no doubt of it, the man-eating was done in secret and entirely without my knowledge and contrary to my iscipline. I can make no stronger denia I have demanded an investigation, and i will come in time; but I can say nothing more than I have already stated. All my papers, and Kislingbury's diary, Lockwood's diary, in fact every scrap of information relating to the expedition, are in harge of the War Department at Washing ton. The crew of the Thetis can testify that the body of the last dead man, Scheider, was not mutilated in any way, and the fact that we kept Allison alive in the hopeless state that we were in, ough to convince anybody that we were not cannibals. Since my report from New-buryport every one of my men has called ipon me. They came in a body and assure ie emphatically that they knew nothin out the condition of the bodies of their fallen comrades and each solemnly swore he was innocent. Perhaps those who died last fed upon the bodies of those who died before. But all this is supposition. I can but answer for myself and my orders to the party. For days and weeks I lay on my back unable to move. If, in my enfeeb condition, one or more of my men fed upon Jack, but as a third party jumped between them, Jack received only a flesh wound about the stomach. THIRTY YEARS IN CHAINS. Horrible Treatment of an Imbecile by His Brother.

NEW YORK, August 16th .- A Times spe cial from Philadelphia of the 15th says A most heartless case of cruelty and in uman treatment has just been brought to light by the Committee on Lunacy of the State Board of Public Charities. The victim, who is an imbecile, has been kept chained in a little hut by his brother for over thirty years. To-morrow morning's mail carry to every physician in Pennsylvania a letter from the Committee on Lunacy, asking the doctors throughout the State to look around them and see if similar cases exist in their neighborhood. The man who imprisoned his brother for three decades is a farmer in Crawford county. Thirty years ago his younger brother be-came an imbecile through disease. Though perfectly harmless, his brother disliked to have him about the house, so he built a ittle shanty about 100 feet away from the farmhouse and there he has kept his rother chained like a wild beast during al these years. When the committee's agent appeared upon the farm he found the inane man lying on the floor of his hut, stark naked. He was covered with filth and vermin and wore a dirty gray matted peard two feet long. He was reclining on a bale of straw, which had done service as a bed for many months. Within is reach lay a big black pan, filled with old bones and the refuse of the family table on which the prisoner was expected to make his noonday meal. Upon seeing the agent he crouched in terror and began to 2 MENAGERIES IN 2 TENTS wail and cry. The hut was dark and dreary, a little ray of light piercing the gloomy -AND Adungeon from a small window in the roof

There was no ventilation to speak of, a little air entering through chinks inside of the weather-boards. Nothing but filth abounded. In the center of the hut was a ened by a heavy chain, only twenty inches chain, being short, did not permit the poor fellow to get far away from the post. The floor had been worn through in a circle right around where the man walked and dragged the chain after him, making necessary a double floor. The ankle upon which the chain was fastened had shrunk and shriveled away. The man looked more like a living skeleton than anything else and constant confinement had made him as weak as a child. Some kindly words were addressed to him by the agent, but he only chattered an unintelligible reply. No having had anybody to converse with all these years, he had lost the method o speech. The sight of the naked idiot chained to the floor and groveling to look on, and the inhumanity of the brother of the captive was vividly por prisoner's brother attempted to shield him A GRAND STREET PARADE AT 10 A. LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE POWELSON CASE. - The San Francisc Examiner of Saturday had the following reference to the termination of this case: 'The trial of James Powellson, on a charge of felony, in enticing Lily Nichols to enter on a life of shame, was concluded in Judge few minutes. Sentence was postponed until Tuesday. The full limit of the penalty is five years in the penitentiary. Which some time afterward was changed. There were present in Court two women Pike & Young. This firm continued unt with whom the prisoner had lived, and they were not called by the prosecution. During the argument Clarence Gray, attorney for the prosecution, created a sensation by pointing to Leftwich, who was in the Court room, and referring to the testimony of Lily, that he had seduced her. He called the attention of the jury to the resemblance of the two, the girl bearing a strong personal likeness to the man, and said that there could be no doubt but that he was her father. Leftwich turned ghastly pale, and became so nervous that he was ompelled to go out into the corridor where he paced up and down until the conclusion of the trial. When the verdict was announced Powellson lost all his air of indifference and appeared exceedingly crest-fallen, with the certainty of passing five years, perhaps, in Folsom, where he will

The Slough Again.

EDS. RECORD-UNION: Will there never e an end to foolish talk about what to do with the slough? Here comes L. C. Chandler with a new plan, and asks the railroad company to open a ditch from the American river to the slough. Heavens! Does not the man know that it is fully one and a half miles from the slough to the American river current now, and that $20,000 would not pay the cost? Then who wants flood waters pouring through the levee in winter? More yet: to connect with the American river will be too soft a thing for Mr. Chandler and his colleagues. The contents of their vaults, and the refuse and filth of the houses they represent, can then be emptied into the slough with impunity. The Health Committee visited the Chandler property, corner Third and J streets, the other day, and found it in a most unhealth- J. F. Chinese tenements, were anxious and willing to have anything done that will insure them and their principals from spending a cent. The thing to do is to do something and quit chattering. The authorities are agreed that the China slough and Chinatown ought to be blotted out, and the slough people. They have kept up this talk about the city being guilty until it is wearisome. Mr. Mesick played over the old tune the other day at the health meeting, and insisted that the city had created city the exclusive right to publish the slough nuisance by inclosing it, and the Chinese filth was too little to be of any account. That's right; leave it to the city; she has a broad back padded with city

The menagerie and ring de-partments have been enlarged since last eason, and are now the completest ever iven to the public. No show in the counry can surpass Cole's in the extent and va-riety of its features, and certainly there is o manager who has so uniformly and un varyingly satisfied his numerous patrons It is impossible to enumerate all the special ttractions of this mammoth show. There re over sixty different acts to be seen in its hree rings and on the elevated stage These acts embrace, besides the ordinary ircus performances of riding, tumbling, aping, etc., such new and astonishing eatures as a troupe of performing Arabs with Turks, Moors, Egyptians and Spanards also in the ring, a sacred white elephant, a white hippopotamus, aerial bi-cyclists, roller skaters, trick elephants, and M'lle Aimee, the human fly, who walks head downward upon a board suspended at hight of fifty feet. Trained animals and wild beasts are to be seen in profusion, and every kind of entertainment calculated to delight the human heart is to be found under Cole's monster canvas. The press is unanimous in declaring it the best circus and menagerie on the road. Prompt and Square. The Home Mutual Insurance Company f California still keeps up its well-earned reputation of promptness and square settle-ment of its losses, as I can testify to by the prompt and satisfactory manner the General Agent, R. H. Magill, and James N Porter, Manager of the Sacramento branch djusted my loss, and gave me a check for ame within two days after the fire. I fully ecommend the Home Mutual Insurance company to my friends and insuring pub-MARTIN KESTLER.

"GIVING TOO MUCH FOR THE WHISTLE."

In a letter to a French lady, which Benjamin Franklin wrote at the age of seventy-three, he thus refers to an incident of his youth:

> "When I was a child of seven years old, my friends, on a holiday, filled my pockets with coppers. I went directly to a shop where they sold toys for children, and being charmed with the sound of a whistle. I gave all my money for one. I then came home and went whistling all over the house, much pleased with my whistle, but disturbing all the family. My brothers and sisters and cousins, understanding the bargain that I made, told methat I had given four times as much as it was worth, put me in mind what good things I might have bought with the rest of the money, and laughed at me so much for my folly, that I cried with vexation, and the reflection gave more chagrin than the whistle gave pleasure. "'This, however,' he adds, 'was of use > to me, the impression continuing on my mind; so that often, when I was tempted to buy some unnecessary thing, I said to myself, 'Don't give too much for the whistle;' so I saved my money.

"As I grew up, came into the world, and observed the actions of men, I thought I met with many, very many, who 'gave too much for the whistle."

There is no doubt that the price a person pays for an article has very much to do with the pleasure derived from it. It is satisfactory to know that one has paid the lowest price possible; dissatisfactory and humiliating to find out that you have been overcharged. We see cases of this latter kind every day, when people ask our prices and find them much below what they have paid for similar goods elsewhere.

The surest known preventive against overcharge is to deal with a large establishment marking its goods in plain figures and with but ONE PRICE. Such an establishment cannot afford to charge more than an article is worth, or to deviate from the principles of equity.

SHEET MUSIC FREE.

We shall take pleasure in presenting any one of the following pieces of large Sheet Music to anyone who may choose to call:

"Chimes of Normandy" (instrumental), by Freeman. "Come to Me, Love, in the Gloaming" (song), by Jas. Harris.

"Patience Waltz," arranged by Milford. "A Leaning O'er the Gate" (song), by H. P. Danks. "Pretty as a Butterfly" (song and dance), by Bobby Newcombe.

Call for the Music at the Dress Goods Counter.

"Better Luck To-morrow" (song), by F. Martyn. "Beggar Student" (instrumental), by Milford.

We believe that in distributing this music we are affording a sure source of pleasure to the receivers, and wish it distinctly understood that we do not consider those who call for it under any obligation to make purchases in our stores.
